Down Home

Imagine the family home place where you can truly kick back and relax.

The paint may be a little chipped and the porch screen door a bit worn, but it's the one place you always feel welcome. And, you never need an invitation to go Down Home. The new Paula Deen Home Collection, Down Home, captures the essence of comfortable, casual living. Forming a cohesive collection with a touch of eclecticism, each piece is inviting, created to foster an environment which treats family like company and company like family.

Down Home is familiar and functional with a generous helping of Southern hospitality. Here, no one puts on airs and you can just be yourself. Nobody will mind, because everyone feels at home with Down Home.

The beauty of mineral streaking, a southern story

The natural character of poplar makes each piece unique

The southern poplars that grow near Paula's Savannah home have a unique characteristic. As they draw water from their native wetlands, they also take in minerals from the soil. Forming alternating streaks of light and dark, the minerals run through the wood in broad lines during rainy years but thinner ones in times of drought. Finished in a light

Oatmeal tone, these mineral streaks come to the forefront. Or, presented in a deep Molasses hue, they show through more softly. The result is a piece that is truly unique – just like Paula.
